In the last decade, India has experienced a digital revolution. With improved network connectivity at competitive prices, use of technology has been widely adopted. Indian mobile telephone system works on GSM platforms and offers reasonably good 3G, 4G and 5G connectivity over most parts of the country. Prepaid local SIM cards from domestic cellular service providers such as Airtel, Vodafone Idea and Jio are also freely available upon furnishing valid identity documentation, such as a passport.

ELECTRICITY SUPPLY

Electricity plug and socket:

230 V; a plug adapter will be needed in order to use Swiss appliances. It is recommended to get a universal adapter and converter kit.

METHODS OF PAYMENT

India's valid currency is the Indian Rupee (INR - ₹) made up of 100 paisa.

Foreign currency, in cash and traveller's cheques (TC), is accepted at most renowned hotels. Foreign currency can be exchanged only at authorised foreign exchange dealers, banks or hotels where a certificate is being issued. This certificate has to be produced to reconvert excess Indian rupees to foreign exchange at the time of departure from India.

If the value of foreign currency in cash exceeds US$5,000 and/or the cash plus TC exceed US$10,000, it should be declared to the customs authorities upon arrival in India. Credit cards and debit cards are widely accepted in most commercial establishments including in restaurants.

The facility to withdraw Indian Rupees from ATMs is easily available across the country. ATMs that accept international debit and credit cards are widely available in larger cities and towns. However, these are harder to find in smaller towns where cash shortages can also pose a problem. Traveller's cheques are not widely accepted and at times cannot be easily cashed even at the banks that have issued them. Due to these limitation, travel money cards have become a popular alternative. They provide features similar to travellers cheque but offer greater ease and flexibility.

India has made several advances in promoting digital methods of payments. The National Payments Corporation of India (NPCI) launched the United Payments Interface (UPI) system. The UPI system integrates bank accounts with a unique ID. The UPI has seen wide adoption due to ease of use, where even smaller payments can be made via the phone. The UPI platform is being supported by various digital wallets such as PayTM, GPay, PhonePay, etc.

DOMESTIC TRAVEL, LOCAL TRANSPORT

Well connected roadways have made it easier to commute easily from one place to another. The local state governments are mainly responsible for running public transportation system like buses, metro, trams, etc. Nowadays, given the ease of accessibility, people in metropolitan cities prefer cab services such as Uber and Ola. Auto rickshaws are also available in almost all the cities.

The average cost of hiring cabs/taxi per Km is as follows. However, app based providers may charge a premium due to surge in demand for cabs during peak hours:

Cab Type	Fare Per Km
Sedan/Semi-Sedan	INR 9 Per Km
MUV/SUV (7 Seater)	INR 12.5 Per Km

Payment for auto rickshaw services are mostly made in cash. However, major percentage of drivers have registered themselves with PayTM, GPay, PhonePay, etc. to accept payment in digital wallets or directly to their bank accounts through UPI.

Nowadays, the concept of self-driven cars on hire is also on the rise. India has witnessed various companies tapping into the market by providing cars on hire. Some of the companies are as follows:

- ZoomCar
- Drivezy
- Revv

Permission is required from Indian authorities to visit designated tribal areas, particularly in the North Eastern part of the country. Some State and Union Territory governments restrict foreigners from travelling in these areas. There are heavy penalties for entering a protected or restricted area without permission.

The Ministry of Home Affairs has temporarily excluded the following areas from the Protected Area regime:

- Manipur
- Mizoram
- Nagaland

Before planning a visit to protected or restricted area:

- Seek advice the Indian Embassy in Berne or from the Ministry of Home Affairs:
<https://www.mha.gov.in/MHA1/PAP.html>
- Apply for permission at least 4 weeks in advance

ACCOMMODATION, TEMPORARY OFFICE SPACE

In most major cities, there are private companies and business centres offering temporary office space, service apartments, as well as co-working spaces.

Major cities have 5-star hotels where services and infrastructure are at par with international standards. Amenities in other luxury hotels can also adequately fulfil the business stay requirements. Major hotel groups operating in India are the indigenous ones like Taj, Oberoi, Leela, ITC, Lalit, Lemon Tree, etc. However, the following international hotel chains are also present in India: like Sheraton, Le Meridian, Hyatt, Radisson, Holiday Inn, Intercontinental, Hilton, Marriott and Novotel, etc.

There exists a demand-supply gap in the availability of hotel rooms, therefore, tariffs can be on the higher side. During peak season, rooms should be booked well in advance, especially for group travel or delegations.

LANGUAGES USED FOR BUSINESS

India is a diverse country and houses various regional and linguistic communities. Most regional communities have their own language which is spoken in a specific region, and there are various regional languages which are part of the official languages in India.

Hindi is the first official language. English is the second co-official language and predominantly used in business and judicial communication. As most States have their own language, local administrative/official forms may be filled in the local language and may require the services of a local translator.

However, English language is widely accepted as a medium of communication.

Tips for Initiating Business Contacts

Even in large enterprises, majority of business control can be patriarchal and dynastic, and managed by the main shareholders themselves through management control of the board. This is unlike the delegated control found in some other economies. However, the occidental structure of management based on professionally trained managers is becoming increasingly popular even in family-owned enterprises.

Like in any other country, in India too, good relationships with business associates are valued. In order to make a place in the Indian market, one needs to have connects with stakeholders in the industry so as to make business run smoothly and efficiently. One of the key factor in finalizing the vendors by the procurement team is the business relationship with such vendors. Scheduling meetings with business partners, participating in trade fairs, enrolling in relevant business chambers, etc. will surely help to build business contacts.

Scheduling Meetings

Meetings plays a vital role in developing business relationships.

It is expected to be on-time for meetings with the Gov and Private sector stakeholders. However, at times it is challenging to keep time due to external factors such a heavy traffic. Therefore, while scheduling a meeting, buffer time needs to factored in and accordingly departure for the meeting should be planned.

Meetings during office hours, specifically between 11:00 and 16.00, and business lunches over dinners are preferred. In case of a contingency, a meeting can be rescheduled with sufficient notice.

Business attire

In India, most corporates have a policy regarding acceptable attire. For men, its business suits and smart casual attire. For women, along with business formals, Saree is an acceptable form of business attire.

Introducing yourself

Greetings such as good morning, good evening, hello etc. and shaking hands is common and acceptable in business settings. Greetings in India vary from region to region, and also with the context (for examples, elders are addressed with deference). As a business traveller, you might want to familiarize yourself with commonly used local language greetings.

Building Trusts

Building a successful business relationship involves winning the trust of the Indian partner. Informal communication playing an important role, and it is common for business partners to share information about their families and visit each other's homes.

Offering and accepting gifts and invitations

Business gifts are not normally expected at the first meeting. Gifts may be given once a relationship with your counterpart develops. However, no matter how much you value the recipient, expensive and rare gifts may cause embarrassment to the recipient. It is common to exchange gifts on special occasions like birthdays, festivals, and so on.

It is advisable to refrain from generalizing and passing value judgements on the topics of religion, politics, gender and culture.

IMPORT OF SAMPLES AND CATALOGUES

ATA Carnet is an International Uniform Customs document which permits duty free temporary admission of goods without a need to submit a bond and follow cumbersome Customs formalities. This document is valid in member countries (including India and Switzerland) who are parties to the Customs convention on ATA carnet. In India, the Federation of Indian Chambers of Commerce and Industry (FICCI) is entitled to issue ATA Carnets. It also provides a reciprocal guarantee pertaining to ATA carnets issued by associations of other countries for temporary import of goods into India, assuring the Indian Customs administration that duties and taxes in case of misuse will be paid by it.

Under the Indian Customs law, the goods imported into India under an ATA carnet are exempted from the whole of Custom duty and integrated goods and services tax (IGST)¹. The broad conditions to claim this exemption are as follows:

However, the said exemption is subject to fulfilment of certain conditions and documentation requirements. A few relevant conditions are as follows:

- Import of commercial samples should not exceed INR 3 lakh in value or 50 units in number, within a period of 12 months. Further, the importer has to declare that the samples have been imported into India solely for the purpose of being shown in India for the guidance of exporters for securing or executing an export order;
- In case of bona fide commercial samples and prototypes, import value should not exceed INR 10,000.
- In case of prototypes of engineering goods being imported as a sample –
 - When the value does not exceed INR 10,000, they shall be rendered useless as merchandise by any suitable process, or otherwise, they should be re-exported within a period of 9 months of import or such extended period as may be allowed; and
 - When the value exceeds INR 10,000, it shall be re-exported within a period of 9 months of import or such extended period as may be allowed by the Assistant/Deputy Commissioner of Customs.

Additionally, commercial catalogues in book form are specifically exempted from Custom duty under the Customs law³. However, this notification has been lately amended⁴.
